

BK-view Xaraya module

Today the BK-view module I wrote for Xaraya went into a live site which can actually be used for something usefull.

The site <http://bk.xaraya.com> is the BitKeeper central for the Xaraya project. The BK-view module is used to browse through all of the clones used in the project, which is in the mean time a rather large number, and I've only included the top level clones.

The clones from the clones are not even in there.