

We're almost there...

That is, finishing up the garage. Next monday the new cement floor will be 'poured in'.

So, we had to clear out everything and prepare the old floor for receiving the new topcoat. There's a nice echo in the garage now ;-). I hope the weather stays reasonable because most of the stuff is outside only protected by a tent made up of the car lift with a large piece of plastic over it.